Why are we always telling you to pat your pork chops dry? Well, since you asked, drying pork with paper towels ensures even browning rather than steaming. Crispy, caramelized edges = major flavor!

MORE IS MORE

If you upgraded your meal to double your protein or veggies and/or ordered 6 servings, you may need to cook in batches or larger cooking vessels. Remember: Larger batches may = longer cook times, so follow the visual and temperature cues. (For 6-person meals, combine the 2- and 4-serving ingredient amounts as needed.) For CustomPlate nutritional information, please refer to EveryPlate.com.

1.

Wash and dry produce. Dice tomato into ½-inch pieces. Peel and finely chop garlic.

2.

In a small bowl, combine tomato, garlic, balsamic glaze, a drizzle of olive oil, salt, and pepper. Set aside until ready to serve.

3.

Pat pork dry with paper towels; season all over with half the Cheesy Italian Crunch. Heat a drizzle of oil in a large pan over medium-high heat. Add pork; cook until browned and cooked through, 4–5 minutes per side. Transfer to a cutting board to rest; tent with foil to keep warm.

4.

Meanwhile, in a small pot, combine polenta and ⅓ cup water (⅔ cup for 4 servings) over medium heat. Cook, mashing with a potato masher, until mostly smooth, 30–60 seconds (remaining lumps will be broken up when whisking). Whisk in sour cream, remaining Cheesy Italian Crunch, and 1 TBSP butter (2 TBSP for 4); simmer until thickened, 3–4 minutes. Taste and season with salt and pepper. (If polenta seems too thick, stir in a splash of water.) Keep covered off heat until ready to serve.

5.

Slice pork crosswise. Divide polenta between shallow bowls and top with pork. Spoon balsamic tomato (draining first) over pork and serve.

Pork is fully cooked when internal temperature reaches 145°.*
